Confirm Swallow is not doing 'hard time'

by GLORIA DAVIS

In the July 16 issue of the Antioch News an article ran concerning a report from law enforcement agencies that two local men, reportedly drug connected, had been sent to prison.

The News received a letter from Marion, Ill. signed with the name of Jesse Swallow, one of the men concerned.

The letter said that, contrary to the article, Swallow was "not doing hard time" and had "no connection whatsoever with any grand jury indictments."

The article had said that the U. S. Attorney's office had neither confirmed or denied Swallow's connection with recent drug-related grand jury indictments of local people.

The letter then suggested where to get "any information concerning Jesse Swallow."

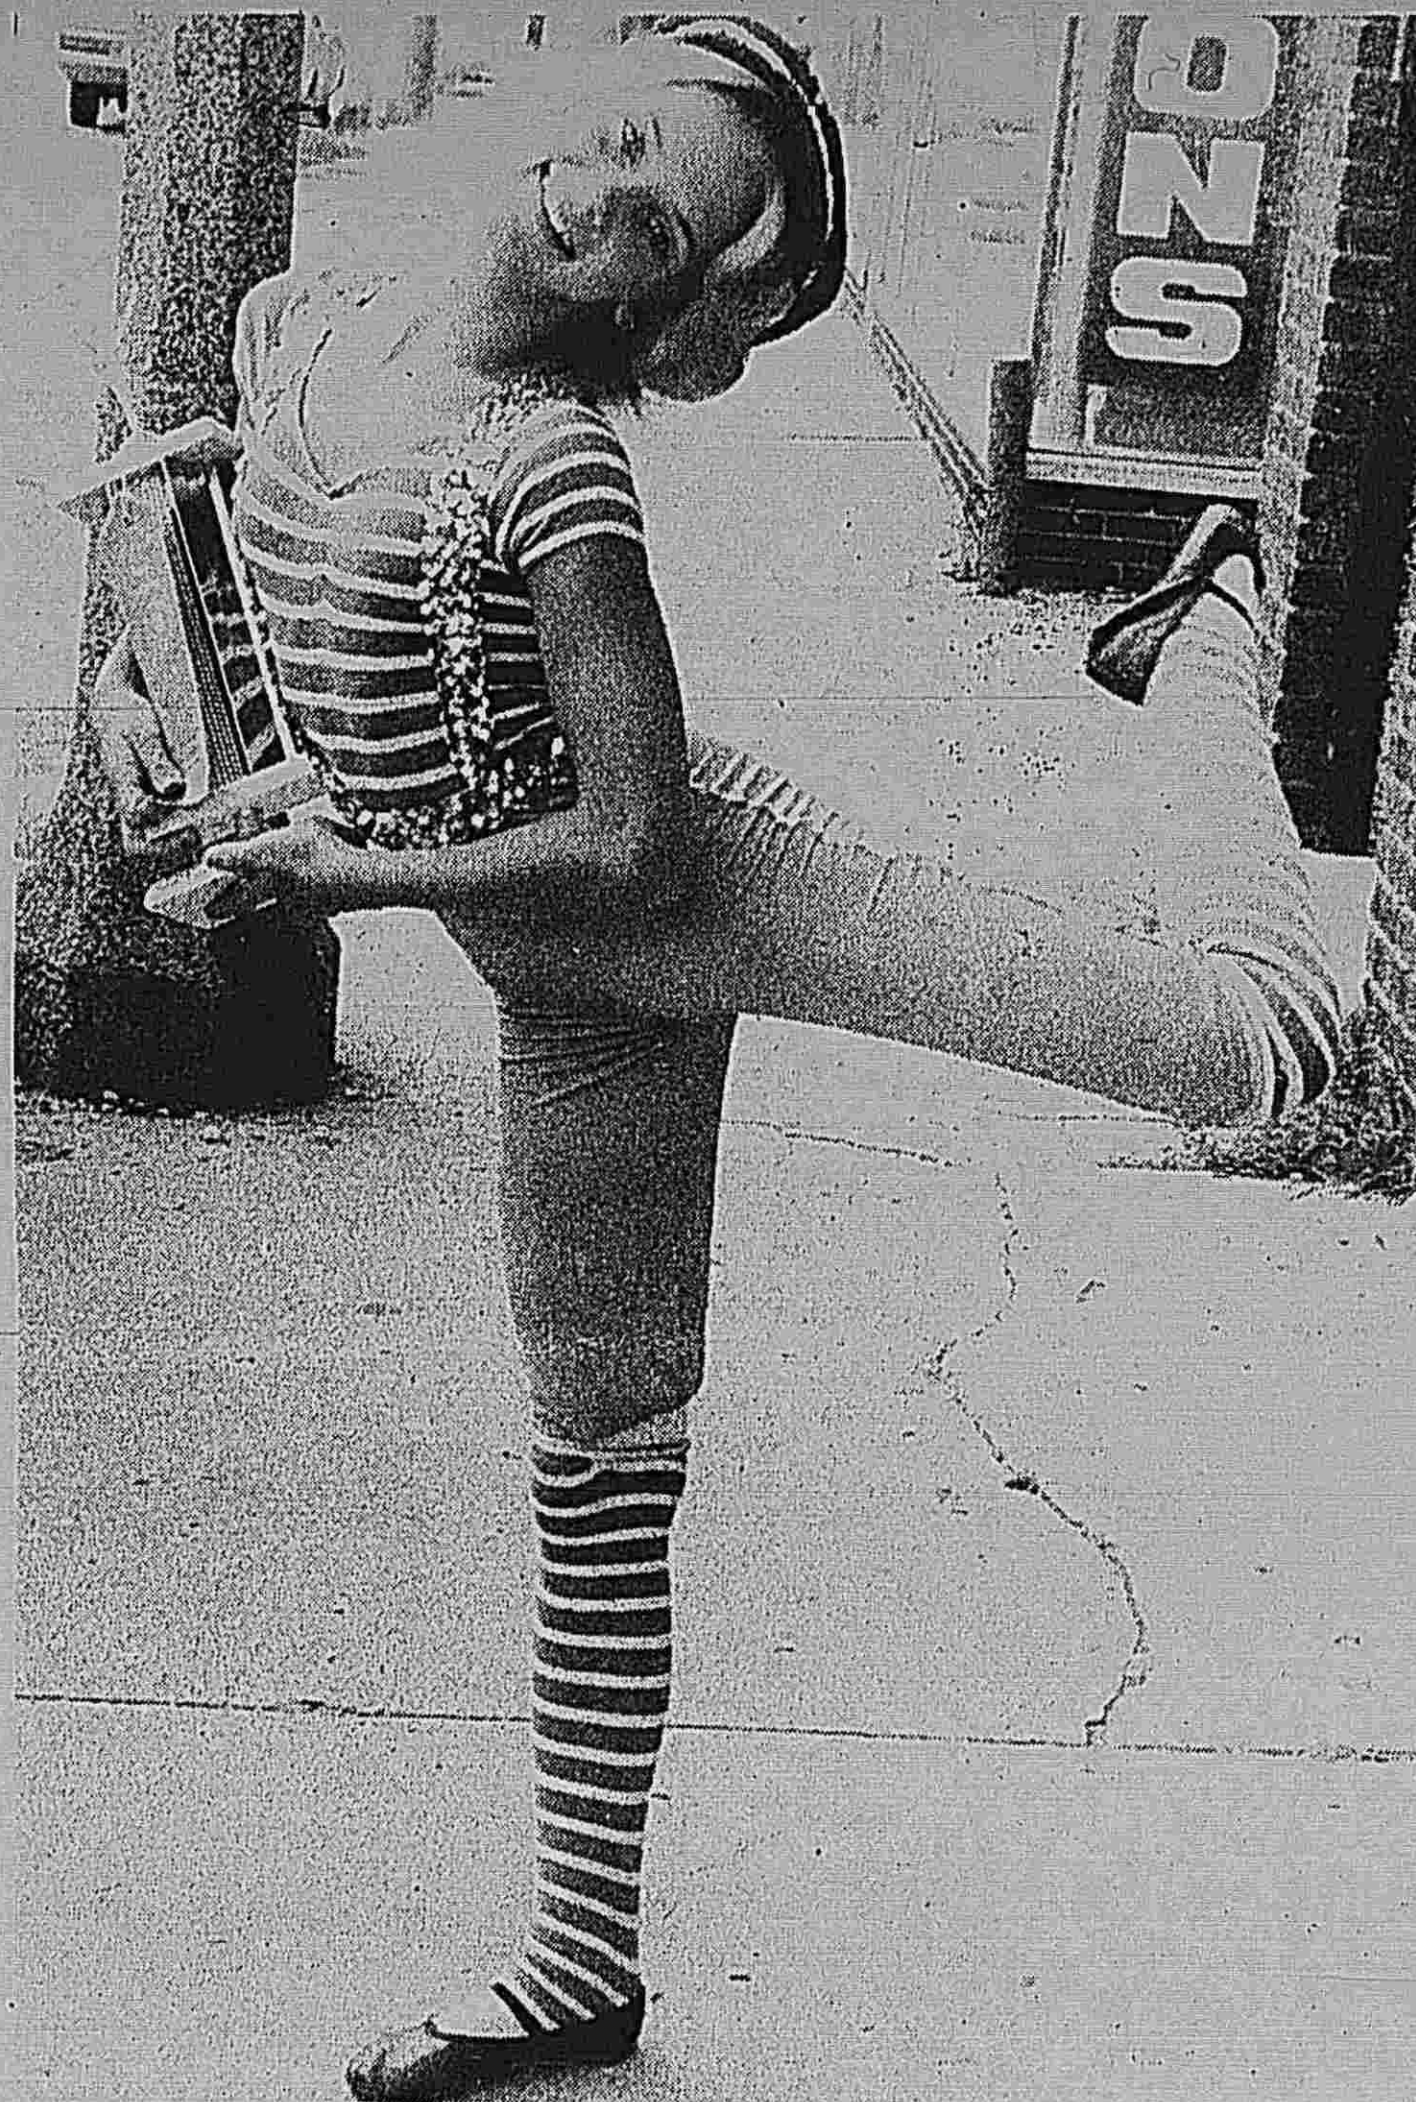

A check with two of these sources revealed that Swallow was convicted in April of 1983 of four of the 10 counts related to drug importation and possession with which he had been charged in a federal Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. court.

His total sentence, because two of the two-year prison sentences imposed were to be served concurrent with two other of the two-year prison sentences, was four years with four years parole.

According to Swallows' attorney, James Reilley of Chicago, Swallow is serving those four years at the federal prison in Marion.

Swallow is in the minimum security (level one) section of that prison.

Reilley reiterated that Swallow had no connection with the drug indictments from U. S. Attorney Dan Webb's office.

Balloons to ballyhoo Maxwell St. sale

A balloon launch will be part the Maxwell St. Days sale, sponsored by the Antioch Chamber of Commerce.

"Kids of all ages," said retail group head Larry Hansen, may pick up post cards at participating merchants on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 2, 3 and 4. Liftoff will be at 2 p.m. from the McDonald's restaurant.

Participants should arrive at McDonald's between 1 and 2 p.m. and should leave enough time to get a balloon and to tie their card to a balloon.

Although cards will be available at McDonald's Saturday before the liftoff, Hansen encourages kids to get their cards ahead of time.

Orange drink and cookies will be available free at the McDonald's.

Participating merchants are Hahn's Jewelers, McDonald's, State Bank of Antioch, First National Bank of Antioch and Great American Federal Savings. Hansen said other merchants will be added to the list.

The chamber retail group still is working on a time limit, but first, second and third prizes are scheduled for those whose balloons go the farthest, Hansen said.

In addition to the balloon launch, the chamber retail group is planning a carnival under the Antioch water tower during the sale.

Kim's dancing really pays-off at county fair

by GLORIA DAVIS

Antioch was "done proud" when one of its residents walked away with top honors at the Lake County Fair's talent contest (junior division) on July 26.

Winning the first-place trophy and a check for $50, with a jazz dance was blond and petite Kimberley Pankauskas, 12, seventh grader at Antioch Upper Grade School.

She is the daughter of Jerome and Dolores Pankauskas of Antioch.

Kimberley is no neophyte dancer, being an eight-year veteran of the Kim Kallas School of Dancing in Lake Villa.

Having dived into a variety of dance techniques, Kimberley has found her favorite, jazz dancing. That involvement is what brought her the coveted trophy and blue ribbon with the dance she did to "Funky Town."

Originally there were 22 contestants in this field which was narrowed to seven finalists and then down to Kim.

Having taken jazz, tap, ballet, gymnastics and all other types of dancing, Kim is looking forward to going on with her dancing studies, concentrating on jazz dancing. After college she hopes to open a dance studio of her own.

When asked if she ever considers show business, she smiles and says, "well, maybe."

Another of Kim's accomplishments, that keeps mom and dad beaming, is the fact that she is an honor student.

Kim intends to use the $50 she won towards a new bike.

NICC to host meet on Chain legislation

An open meeting to discuss the new Chain of Lakes Agency legislation will be hosted by the Northern Illinois Conservation Club (NICC) on Tuesday, Aug. 7, at 7:30 p.m., at the Antioch Community High School commons.

The meeting will be designed to inform the public about the referendum which may include the imposition of boating fees and which will appear on the November 1984 Ballot.

The referendum will affect people living in Antioch, Lake Villa, Grant and Cuba Townships in Lake County and parts of McHenry, Nunda and Algonquin Townships in McHenry County. The program is open to the public and completely free of charge.

Senators Jack Schaffer and Adeline Geo-Karis and Representatives Dick Klemm and Bob Churchill have been invited to explain the legislation and answer questions.

There will be a question and answer period with format to follow that of the ABC program Night-Line (NICC) to play the part of Ted Koppel "so to speak". (NICC) Secretary Mary Sterbenz, stated "It is the intent of our organization to neither support nor oppose the referendum, but rather to provide an opportunity for the public to understand the referendum before voting on it, on the November Ballot."

Those planning on attending who will be representing other organizations, citizens groups with established views on this referendum, etc., are asked to contact Bob Lindquist, president of NICC at (312) 395-2087 or Mary Sterbenz, secretary, at (312) 395-1035, to assure recognition.

NICC assures that this program will not only prove interesting, but inform the public of the issue so that the proper public position may be expressed in the November election.

Study Garbage Flow, Say Newport Activists

"The sting has been taken out of the crisis," said Ruby Holmquist, president of the Newport Environmental Action Team (NEAT), an environmental group which has successfully argued for changes in Lake County's proposed long-term solid waste plan.

The Lake County Solid Waste Advisory Committee (SWAC) has agreed to accept all of NEAT's suggested changes to the final draft plan for a long-term solution to the county's waste disposal needs, said Holmquist.

When the draft goes before the Lake County Board later this month, it will reflect NEAT's position that the original plan's estimate of landfill needs in Lake County was too high. Incineration, through which some by-products such as steam could be recovered and sold, is the group's preferred method over building more landfills.

The group feared that, based on the plan's statements, any landfill firm could easily win permits to establish more landfills.

The group also wanted to direct attention to the need to determine the waste flow.

"The plan as proposed reiterates that the county has to do a detailed study to determine the waste flow in and out of the county," said Holmquist.

"It is understandable that out-of-county municipalities, such as Kenosha, would take the low bid and dump their waste in Lake County. But, until now the county has assumed that the same amount of waste is going out as coming in. But that hasn't been verified," said Holmquist.

NEAT hopes that eventual legislation will be adopted which will control the amount of garbage which can be brought into the county.

At this time, the group is "pleased."

"We are over the first hurdle which was to take the pro-landfill statement out of the plan," said Holmquist.

NEAT was formed in opposition to a proposed landfill in Newport Township on land purchased by John Sexton, Contractors, a Hillside sand and gravel company in spring, 1983. The group fears that Sexton, who has 1,200 accounts for his operations which include rubbish disposal, land filling and grading, will turn the property into a major landfill.

DENTAL PROBLEMS IN HISTORY

Q. Did early cultures have much the same dental problems we do?

A. They unquestionably did. Ancient Egyptian papyri indicate periodontal and gum diseases were prevalent and studies of 4,000-year-old mummies bear this out. Sumerians around 3,000 B.C. tried to practice dental hygiene and excavations in Mesopotamia yielded golden toothpicks.

The oldest known Chinese medical work (2500 B.C.) goes into detail about oral diseases. In fact, the Chinese may have invented the toothbrush, a chewstick with fibers that separated into bristles. Talmudic writings describe attempts at wire-splinting loosened teeth, and a Roman, Aulus Cornelius, Celsus, recommended tartar removal and chewing unripe pears and apples to treat gingivitis.

Other ancient writings tell of medications ranging from astringent mouthwashes and dentifrice powders to counter-irritants to treat gum disease.

Hain said, 'Principals face many challenges

"School principals face a great challenge to prepare our nation's children for the technological world of the future," said Paul R. Hain, principal of Wm. C. Petty Elementary School in Antioch, a week-long seminar designed to strengthen leadership and instructional skills of elementary and middle school principals.

"Our key responsibility, if we are to maintain excellence in education, is to keep up with new developments in society and incorporate this knowledge into the school curriculum at the early stages of child development," Hain added. "To achieve this goal, we must first prepare ourselves."

Hain is one of over 300 educators throughout the country selected to attend the second annual National Fellows Program, sponsored by the National Assn. of Elementary School Principals (NAESP) in cooperation with Walt Disney World's Epcot Center, Orlando, Fla. and Florida Institute of Technology (FIT) in Melbourne.

Under the theme of "The School of Tomorrow - Today: Technology, Time, and Talent," the session had explored current educational issues as well as the increasingly important area of educational technology, with faculty selected from among leading educators.

Practical, goal-oriented workshops at FIT occupied the first four days, followed by two days at Epcot Center to study the "community of tomorrow."

Discussion groups, videotape presentations, and an open computer lab provided additional learning opportunities.

"Our society is undergoing rapid changes," said NAESP executive director Sam Sava, "with new ideas and techniques; new applications of technology; and new kinds of relationships between school, business, and the community emerging. The Fellows Program was created out of an awareness that our educators must be ready to meet these challenges," he added.

This year's sessions were designed to study a specific topic in depth each day. Monday featured advancements in technology, Tuesday focused on making effective use of time, Wednesday examined how principals can enhance their talents, and Thursday and Friday provided an overview of the world of tomorrow at Epcot Center.

Key speakers included specialists on learning styles and school planning, and principals active in the computer field. Of particular importance were presentations by Walt Disney World staff on how school administrators can develop internal and external marketing strategies to strengthen community support for the involvement in schools.

Highlights of the program were hands-on experience in using computers, a presentation of model techniques on how to increase academic learning time, and a workshop in which principals developed personal profiles to strengthen leadership skills.

The National Fellows Program was offered in two identical sessions, July 1-7 and July 8-14.

The NAESP is a professional organization serving more than 22,000 elementary and middle school principals throughout the country, in Canada, and overseas.

When I think about it No fool like an old self fooler!

by GLORIA DAVIS

They say you can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time.

Be that as it may, there seems to be many of us that are expending a lot of time and effort trying to fool, of all people, ourselves.

The list is lengthy and when you really analyze some of our foolish, ostrich-in-the-sand actions, a little laughable.

Like the friend of mine who's always on a diet and spends a small fortune on diet foods, carefully monitoring the type of food she eats all the while refusing to pay attention to quantity.

No matter how you cut it, those numbers on the scale just aren't going to decrease when you eat four sandwiches for lunch, whether or not they're made with diet bread, and "lite" peanut butter and mayo.

Then there are those of us that keep switching cigarette brands each time a new less dangerous coffin nail comes out on the market.

Of course the fact that the new mildness has us smoking twice as much is something many choose to ignore.

Then there's all that misleading advertising we are surrounded by that takes an under-average IQ to see through, but we really don't want to.

For instance, how about the "two for one sales" we flock to even when bombarded by lots of other price cut advertisements.

After all, its getting something for free, right? Wrong!

Any fourth grade student can tell you that, if you pay full price for one and get the other for nothing, it's like getting both articles for 50 percent off. The stickler here is that one is forced to buy two sale items to get this discount and sometimes we don't save in the long run because we really wouldn't have bought the second item if we hadn't had too, ergo we actually pay full price for the item we want.

Rummage sale buying of things we need like the proverbial hole in the head falls into the same category.

Haven't you ever carefully locked all your doors at night and then opened windows to let air in?

How about slightly exceeding old 55 MPH and doing a little traffic weaving when you only have minutes to spare, risking life, limb and getting a ticket just to end up at a stop light beside a car you passed 10 miles ago.

And what about drinking half of a pot of coffee before getting behind the wheel after too much libation?

We all really know this makes for a wide awake drunk not a sober driver, so why do we do it?

We've all read that those sweatsuits that are purported to help weight loss do so little that it's not worth enduring their smelly uncomfortable. Stats show that doing the same suggested exercises, sans the suit, brings almost the same results in inch loss.

And the millions of dollars made by companies manufacturing spray room deodorants attests to the fact that there are tons of people that fool themselves into thinking they have so easily solved an odor problem without delving into the cause.

The fact that you can bet on "housitosus" returning in just a short while is swiftly erased by another few quick squirts.

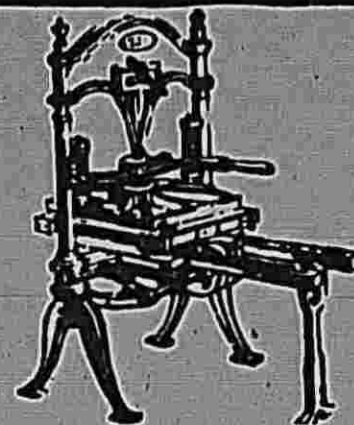

And there's really nothing wrong with that unless one finds the need for the use of both hands unencumbered by a spray can.

One of the most evident self foolers comes to mind because its election time. I am still mystified by the myriad of gullible people enveloped in political rallies that blossom onto our tv screens, seemingly mesmerized and reduced to tears of premature gratitude as they "swallow" all the impossible election promises.

Why is it that, according to the mortal politicians themselves and many of their disciples, all office-seekers can walk on water in those pre-November months?

Now some people would throw worrying onto this "needless" list. And some people would tell you that hours of worrying never changed a thing.

But I'm here to tell you that the day I stop what my husband calls my "constant caroling of doom," something really bad is going to happen. The worst part is that sometimes I really worry that he may be right and a lot of hours and hand wringing has gone to waste.

Along the way with ANNIE MAE

Although word has it that there were many people in the audience at the crowning of Lake County's new fair queen who thought Miss Antioch, Lorin Buchta, had the title in her pocket, up to the very last, it was great to see her end up among the five finalists when competing with such a bevy of beauties.

Congrats to Miss Green Oaks on her victory!

Flash! Lakeland Newspaper's Mike Babicz (regional editor) and Colleen DeVries (Antioch Reporter editor) will be vieing for first place honors as they race against comers from The Advertiser and U.S. Cable in the media race at the Antioch Rotary Scholarship Benefit Night on Aug. 3.

Speaking of the Rotary race, the Rotarians invited Annie Mae to race but I declined when I saw the car they wanted me to race in. A '50s Edsel, really!!

America's first compulsory education law was passed in 1647 in Massachusetts.

I have an idea! Annie Mae offers to race at next year's scholarship race night if she receives a bonafide offer of a real 1985 Corvette to drive in the race.

If you've always wanted to know who Annie Mae really is, just bring out that Corvette out!!!!

Happy Anniversary to Harlan and Dorothy Ware and Betty and Art Anderson.

And happy birthday wishes go to Helen Gutowski.

It was really great to see the names of all the people from Antioch that took ribbons at the county fair. Lakeland Newspapers will be running a list of all the ribbon winners in issues to follow.

The Lion's are coming, the Lion's are coming, next Sunday, with their famous chicken barbecue!!!

It will be great to see one of our local performers who made good in the world of show business, Lloyd Pedersen, who will be bringing his show to Antioch sometime in September.

"A newspaper dedicated to people marching to their own drummers."

CUB asks support of Illinois utility customers

Illinois utility customers will be seeing something new in their July bills this year...invitations to join the new Citizen's Utility Board.

Siblings class to be held

St. Therese Hospital's Obstetrics (OB) Dept. offers two monthly classes for children ages 3-10 whose families are awaiting the birth of a baby.

"Getting Ready for Brother or Sister" class will be presented from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 8, in the hospital's OB Family Room.

Parents who wish to register their children for this free class should call (312) 578-2610.

With the opening of the CUB membership drive, Illinois becomes the second state in the nation to have a citizens advocate board to represent utility customers in ratesetting processes.

Wisconsin was the first state to establish a CUB and was successful in saving utility customers there $43 million in its first year of operation alone.

In April of 1983, Illinois voters in more than 100 communities sent the legislature a clear message—they wanted a CUB here as well.

LAST YEAR, the General Assembly responded, passing legislation to create an Illinois CUB.

The legislation provides that an interim 11-member board of director will help get the CUB established and the July utility bill en-group's first major effort at getting the CUB underway.

The purpose of the CUB is to give utility customers the voice we need in the rate-setting process.

Voluntary CUB membership contributions will be used to hire lawyers, researchers, economists, accountants, and other experts to represent us, the consumers.

THE ENCLOSURES soliciting membership and contributions for the CUB were included in the July utility mailings by order of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Printing and some other initial CUB costs are being financed through a one-time $100,000 loan from the ICC.

The special loan was included under the provisions of the CUB legislation and must be repaid, with interest, by 1986.

Eventually, the CUB will be governed by a 22-member board of directors, with one member from each of Illinois' 22 Congressional districts.

The board will not receive any tax dollars, but will instead be financed by voluntary contributions of $5 to $100 from concerned Illinois utility customers.

Lloyd Pedersen

Pedersen Nelson's voice dub

Willie Nelson? Not really, but the voice you think is Willie's in the upcoming CBS movie-of-the-week "Scorned and Swindled" really belongs to former Antioch resident Lloyd Pedersen, who now resides in Burbank, Calif.

"I never dreamed I'd be asked to sound like Willie Nelson, but when the producers of the film, who wanted to use a Willie Nelson record for background music, found out how much it was going to cost, they auditioned people to sound like him, and I got it," Pedersen explained.

"I guess my recording rate is a little cheaper than Willie's," he added.

Pedersen, who is currently appearing in the musical "Cabaret" in the Los Angeles area and has an upcoming engagement on the cruise ship "S.S. Azure Seas" to Mexico when the play finishes, will be bringing his own musical show to the Antioch High School auditorium this fall, Sept. 28 and 29.

Supreme Court upholds selective service rule

On July 5, the Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the Solomon amendment which required that all men receiving federal financial aid for education must be registered with Selective Service.

Chief Justice Burger stated that: "Conditioning receipt of Title IV aid on registration is plainly a rational means to improve compliance with the registration requirement."

He went on to state that the law is "a fair allocation of scarce federal resources...by limiting Title IV aid to those who are willing to meet their responsibilities to the United States by registering with the Selective Service when required to do so."

The legislation (sponsored by Rep. Gerald Solomon of New York) went into effect on Oct. 1, 1983.

Its intent is to make men aware of their legal requirement to register with Selective Service as they reach their 18th birthdays.

To date, 12.4 million men have registered — which represents 98 percent of the drafteligibles.

Pleased with the court's decision, Gen. Thomas K. Turnage, the director of selective service, noted: "It has always been my philosophical conviction that a man who accepts the benefits of our society must also accept the responsibilities that go along with them. And, registration with selective service is a very unintrusive responsibility that must be met. To their credit, the vast majority of young men have already registered with us. They are proving to be responsible, law-abiding men — I salute them."

Registration is a simple process that takes about five minutes at any U.S. Post Office.

A man fills out a form which asks only for his name, address, telephone number, social security number and date-of-birth. Men must register within 30 days of their 18th birthday.

For their convenience in applying for student loans and job-training benefits, they may register up to 120 days before their birthday.

Failure to register is a felony with a penalty of $10,000 and/or five years in prison.

Cancer Tag Days set in Antioch, Aug. 3, 4

The Lake County Unit of the American Cancer Society will hold its annual tag day in Antioch Friday and Saturday, Aug. 3 and 4, during the celebration of Maxwell St. Days.

Mrs. Charles G. Hallett (Mary), a member of the board of directors, Lake County Unit, the American Cancer Society, and an Antioch resident, is chairman of the event.

She has enlisted the cooperation of nearly 45 volunteers who are members of the Antioch Women's Club, as well as other concerned residents.

Tagging hours are set from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., on Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., on Saturday. Florence Babusek, State Bank of Antioch, marketing officer, will distribute and receive the tag day cans.

"Only with the support of the community can the Cancer Society continue to function directly and efficiently in the Antioch area, keeping the services to all in need," said the chairman of the Tag Days.

The American Cancer Society is not a member of the United Way but is a member of the National Health Agencies.

Polley finds TM aides many in stress dealing

by GLORIA DAVIS

Living through high school years monitored by a father, Warren Polley, who was the school principal may have been the first lesson in stress survival that led Jim Polley into the field that occupies 50 percent of his time at age 32.

He came through those years with flying colors as an honor student and a three-sport athlete and went on to Coe College, the alma mater of another former resident of Antioch High School that the News has recently featured, Air Force Major Bernie Smith.

In fact it was through the SR-71 pilot's urging that Polley went to Coe.

It was in senior year that Polley first learned about Transcendental Meditation (TM) and credits it with getting him through the stress of finals and ultimately the rigors of student teaching.

Polley taught social studies in a junior high school in Cedar Rapids, Ia. for a few years and then decided that he wanted to teach people about the TM that had so changed his life and made him a happier person.

Since the only place one can learn to be a legitimate TM instructor is in France, that's where Polley spent eight months taking the necessary accelerated courses, six-and-one-half days a week, seven hours a day, for eight months.

He returned to the U. S. to teach TM at the Maharishi International University in Fairfield, Ia.

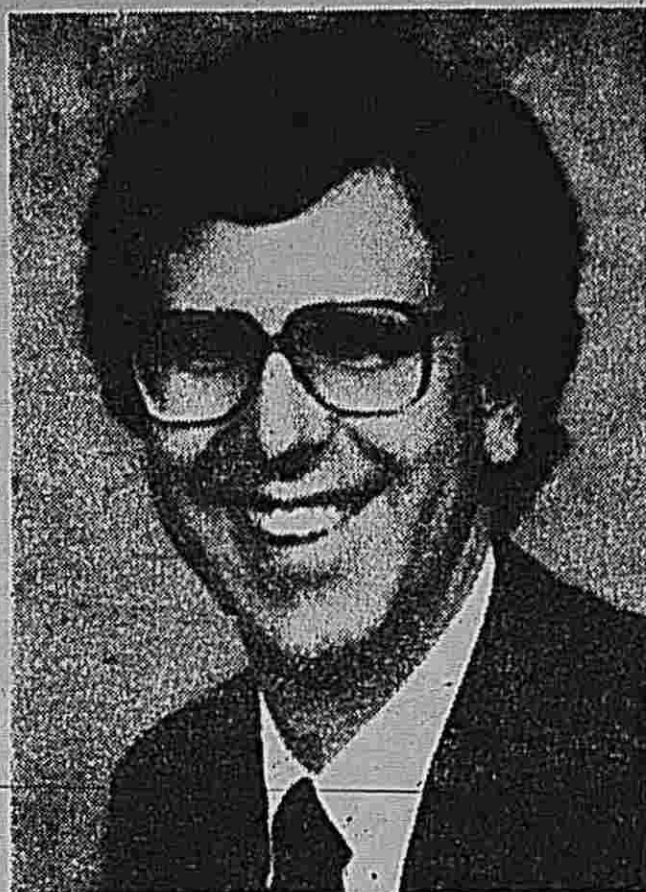

From 1976 to 1980 he was in charge of the Lake County TM Center until the funding ran out.

Today, he and his wife, a Milwaukee school teacher, live in that Wisconsin city where Polley is the chairman of the Milwaukee TM Program, besides running his own specialty advertising firm.

Polley credits TM for giving him the hardiness and ambition to work on an average of 60 hours per week, 30 on TM projects and the other 30 running his business.

Polley, a Milwaukee businessman/educator and Antioch native, will speak on "Transcendental Meditation and Stress Management," on Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 8 and 9. The free public lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Antioch Township Library, 757 N. Main St., Antioch.

According to Polley, "the Transcendental Meditation (TM) technique is a very simple mental technique that reduces stress and develops creativity. Scientific research that has been conducted at over 100 universities and research institutions (including Harvard, Yale, and UCLA) verifies that the transcendental meditation program reduces high blood pressure, anxiety, depression, cigarette smoking, alcohol consumption, and many other health related problems."

James Polley

"Recent research on the TM and advanced TM-Sidhi program, even indicates that reversal of aging is a benefit for TM meditators. According to the study published in the International Journal of Neuroscience, (Feb. 82) a person 50 years old who has been practicing the TM technique for over five years would have the physiology of an average 38-year-old," he said.

"The study showed that short TM meditators had a biological age of five years younger than the general population. In those subjects practicing the TM technique for over five years, a biological age of 12 years younger was noted. In some cases the TM subjects were biologically as much as 27 years younger," Polley said.

Hettich presents paper on college teaching

Paul Hettich of Antioch presented a paper at the Tenth International Conference on Improving University Teaching, held at College Park, Md. a suburb of Washington, D.C. His paper was one of 80 presentations made during the July 4-7 conference which attracted college and university teachers and administrators from throughout the world.

In "Journal Writing: A Decade of Research and Application," Hettich integrated his research on journal writing, a teaching/learning technique that enables college students to connect abstract ideas derived from coursework to their personal experiences.

In past years, he presented his work at national conventions of the American Psychological Assn. and at the Inter-American Congress of Psychology. Hettich's presentation at the Tenth International Conference was among three that were abstracted and subsequently published in the July 11 issue of "The Chronical of Higher Education," the weekly newspaper for higher education personnel. He is assistant to the president for Grants and Institutional Research, professor of psychology and former academic dean at Barat College in Lake Forest. He was accompanied to the conference by his wife, Mary Ann, and children Philip and Kristin. The family participated in the immense July 4th celebration on Washington's mall, and they toured other attractions in the Washington and Baltimore areas.

Legion confab highlights interest auxiliarians

Highlights of the recent 64th American Legion Auxiliary State Convention at the Sheraton International at O'Hare will be given by President Betty Davis, President-elect Eunice Rathmann and Sgt. at Arms-elect Clementine Fusco during the next meeting of Antioch Unit 748, Monday, Aug. 6. Since both Davis and Fusco are Legion members in their own right, Fusco spent a good bit of the time attending the Legion Convention also and will report at the Legion Post's next meeting.

The Antioch Unit members are strongly urged to attend on the 6th. Besides the Convention report, plans will be made for the Installation of Officers, Thursday, Aug. 23. As in the past few years, the Zion Post and Unit will be installed with the Antioch Post and Unit.

Vice President Iris Schroeder has begun collecting membership dues for 1984-85 and hopes to be able to report a good number of members paid up by installation night. "Remember, Auxiliary members, we would certainly like to have more of you able to attend our monthly meetings, but all members - active or inactive - help the total count nationwide. This total count can be a good 'selling' point by our national officers when discussing legislation with Federal officials that could specifically affect ex-servicemen and women or their families," Rathmann said.

Schedule audition

High School age girls are wanted to play a featured role in The Fool's Players production of "The Lloyd Pedersen Show," to be presented on Sept. 28 and 29 at the high school auditorium.

Tryouts for the 12 openings in Pedersen's show will be held on Monday evening, July 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the choir room of Antioch Community High School.

"An ability to move well is very important, but dance experience is not required," said Ken Smouse.
